

BASOR Editorship Proposal. Bios

Susan Cohen (Montana State University, Ph.D. Harvard University 2000) is Professor and Department Chair in the Department of History and Philosophy at Montana State University. Her research interests focus on rural-urban relationships in the Bronze Ages in the southern Levant, interconnections and chronological synchronisms between Egypt and the eastern Mediterranean world, and more recently, archaeologies of rural populations in the Roman period in Palestine. She participated in the Tel Miqne-Ekron and Tel Ashkelon excavations, directed the excavations at Gesher and Tel Zahara, and she currently is a co-director of the Legio Excavations. She has published two monographs, Canaanites, Chronologies, and Connections: The Relationship of Middle Bronze IIA Canaan to Middle Kingdom Egypt (2002), and Peripheral Concerns: Urban Development in the Bronze Age Southern Levant (2016), two primary site reports, The Middle Bronze Age IIA Cemetery at Gesher: Final Report (with Yosef Garfinkel) (2007), and Excavations at Tel Zahara (2006-2009): Final Report. The Hellenistic and Roman Periods (2013), and multiple book chapters and journal articles on these topics and related subjects. She is a member of the editorial board for JAEI, and reviews contributions for JNES, JAEI, BASOR, Levant, JEMAHS, Egypt and Levant, British Archaeological Reports, as well as project proposals for NSF, NEH, Israel Science Foundation, and the Austrian Academy of Sciences.

Marwan Kilani (Free University of Berlin; DPhil Oxford University 2017) is a PostDoc researcher at the Free University of Berlin and the Berlin-Brandenburgische Akademie der Wissenschaften, working on a project financed by the Swiss National Science Foundation. His current work focuses on the sociolinguistic interactions between Egypt and the Levantine coast during the Late Bronze Age. He is the author of two monographs (Byblos in the Late Bronze Age – Interactions between the Levantine and Egyptian Worlds, Brill 2019, and Group Writing: a New Approach to its Vocalization, Lingua Aegyptia. Studia Monographica, 2019) and of articles in peer-reviewed journals. He also has a strong interest in digital humanities and in the development of computational tools for the study of ancient societies Near Eastern Societies. He has experience in co-editing conference proceedings and in reviewing articles for both journals and collected volumes. He is involved in and collaborates with multiple international and often multidisciplinary projects in the United States (Language, semantics and cognition: Saying and conceptualizing the world from Ancient to modern times, Yale University), in Europe (SINUHE Project at Göttingen University, Thesaurus Linguae Aegyptiae at Berlin-Brandenburgische Akademie der Wissenschaften, Projet Ramsès at Liège University, Lexibank project at the Max Plank Institute for the Science of Human History in Jena), and abroad (iClassifier at Jerusalem University, Israel).

Jana Mynářová (Charles University Prague; Ph.D. 2004, Habilitation 2015, Prague) is an Associate Professor of Egyptology at the Czech Institute of Egyptology, Charles University, Prague. Her research focuses on various aspects of the relations between Egypt and the Ancient Near East in the 2nd millennium BC. She is an author and co-author of several books and studies on the topic (including Language of Amarna – Language of Diplomacy. Perspectives on the Amarna Letters, Prague, 2007; The Deir el-Medina and Jaroslav Černý Collections II: Pottery, with P. Onderka and P. Pavúk, Prague, 2018, Amarna Cuneiform Palaeography. International Correspondence and Related Texts, Prague, forthcoming). Since 2004 she is a member of the archaeological mission of the Czech Institute of Egyptology to Abusir (Egypt). She presently carries research projects devoted to the study of Amarna cuneiform palaeography and management of resources and taxation in the ANE (3rd-2nd millennium BC; co-PI Sergio Alivernini). She edited and co-edited more than ten volumes (Fs., conference volumes; Charles University, Brill, National Museum, PeWe Verlag) and she is active as a member of editorial boards of several journals (ArOr, OA Series Nova, JAEI, Chatreššar, Annals of the Náprstek Museum – chair of the board), as well as a manuscript reviewer (BASOR, JAEI, JNES, SEL, ArOr etc.).

Regine Pruzsinszky (Albert-Ludwigs-University Freiburg; Doctorate 2000 Vienna, Habilitation 2008 Vienna) is a Professor of Assyriology at the Institute of Archaeological Studies at the University of Freiburg. Her research interests focus on cuneiform records from the Late Bronze Age, the chronology of Mesopotamia, Ancient Near Eastern onomastics and the socio-cultural role of musicians. Next to her interest in Ancient Near Eastern Studies she has participated in a number of excavations in Austria, Greece, Syria, and Lebanon and is a member of the projects Visual Culture and Anthropology and SurFace: Bild-Artefakt-Relationen of the Institute of Archaeological Studies. She is the author of Die Personennamen der Texte aus Emar (Bethesda, 2003), and Mesopotamian Chronology of the 2nd Millennium BCE, An Introduction to the Textual Evidence and Related Chronological Issues (Vienna, 2009). Among other edited books she has edited a volume on Mesopotamian Dark Age Revisited (Vienna, 2004) together with Hermann Hunger, and another on Policies of Exchange, Political Systems and Modes of Interaction in the Aegean and the Near East in the 2nd Millennium B.C.E. (Vienna, 2015) together with Birgitta Eder. She is a member of the editorial board several journals (Chatreššar, State Archives of Assyria Bulletin, Freiburger Studien zur Archäologie & Visuellen Kultur) and has peer-reviewed several contributions for Akkadica, Altorientalische Forschungen, Egypt and the Levant, Journal of Near Eastern Studies, Mitteilungen der Deutschen Orient-Gesellschaft, State Archives of Assyria Bulletin, Barcino. Monographica Orientalia and the E-Journal helden.heroes.héros.